

The Star Grocery

Popular Low Price Grocery.

No tricks—straight dealing all the way through. An advertised item will always be found precisely as advertised with no strings attached to it. It isn't necessary to buy out the whole store to get your sugar; you can buy your sugar separately or in order, whichever way pleases you pleases us, and we don't sell a thing without a guaranty. If it doesn't suit you bring it back and get your money. You'll save money—get better service, and complete satisfaction by dealing here. A trial trip makes permanent patrons.

22 Pounds Finest Granulated Sugar	$1 00
All Kinds Package Coffee, per package	21
23 Pounds Extra C Sugar	1 00
2 cans Solid Pack Tomatoes	15
2 " Sweet Corn	15
2 " California Peaches, heavy syrup	25
2 " Pears	25
1 can " Apples	10
1 " " Plums	10
1 " " Muscat Grapes	10
No. 1 Sugar Cured Breakfast Bacon, per pound	11
No. 1 Sugar Cured Hams, per pound	12
California Hams, per pound	8
Dry Salt Side Meat, per pound	8
7 Pounds Hand Picked Navy Beans	25
4 Packages Cleaned Currents	25
4 Packages California Plums	25
3 Pounds Seedless Raisins	25
2 Pounds Evaporated Raspberries	45
Clifton and Orange Peel, per pound	20
2 Pounds Evaporated Pears	25
Large Colorado Potatoes, per bushel	65
4 Cakes Grandpa's Wonder Tar Soap	10
4 Packages Paragon's Breakfast Food	10
4 Packages Paragon's Breakfast Flakes	10
4 Packages Aunt Jemima Pan Cake Flour	10
3 Packages Buckwheat Flour	25
10 Pounds Mackerel	85
10 Pounds White Fish	50
Best Ginger Snaps, per pound	3
The Crackers, per pound by box	35
2 Gallon Pail Sugar	55
27 Pound Pail Jelly	55
1 Quart Imported Queen Olives	20

FLOUR. FLOUR. FLOUR.

All Brands and all Kinds of Flour at Lower Prices this week.

Out of Town Orders Boxed and Delivered at Depot Free.

J. S. SPROAT

THE STAR GROCER.

Tele. 252.

112 East 6th.

SNAP SHOTS AT HOME NEWS.

General Manager Frey of the Santa Fe is in New Mexico.

It cost $222.25 to conduct the recent election in Topeka.

D. C. Nellis has gone to Chicago to visit his daughter and to see the Rock Island ship employees at Horton were paid today.

Assistant State Auditor Mackey has purchased a Topeka drug store.

The new high school building contains one of the best laboratories in the west.

There were 733 votes cast in the Third precinct of the Third ward at the recent election.

Col. John M. Brown says he has permanently retired from politics, and will accept no office.

Rev. E. M. Randall of Leavenworth addressed the noon meeting at the Santa Fe shops today.

The state military board is in session today in the lieutenant governor's office at the state house.

William D. Coldren has sold 160 acres of land near Dover to E. P. Osburn of Keosau for $1,500.

Harry Talbot, who formerly lived at Larned, and is now traveling for a Philadelphia house, has moved to Topeka.

A lot of worn out guns and other accoutrements in the state arsenal are to be disposed of by the state military board.

The three Republican members of the legislature from Shawnee county, say they propose to put windows in the state house dome.

R. J. Sloat, the defeated candidate for representative in the city, bet a hat on his election, and left town without paying the wager.

A Topeka physician thinks that a medical officer should be appointed to look after the schools and the health of the scholars in the city.

E. M. Cockrell, who was elected clerk of the district court, still acts as deputy and is one of the hardest workers connected with the court.

Cyrus Corning is the only Populist in Topeka who has ventured out with a new suit of clothes since election and he also wears a new stove pipe hat.

The city street force is fearful lest the next move of the mayor and council be to abolish that department. Their work is more necessary than the engineers.

It is said that Prof. Frank Smith, superintendent of the Ottawa public schools, is the man who will be assistant state superintendent under the incoming administration.

A meeting will be held at the First Presbyterian church tonight in the interest of home missions. Dr. Page of Leavenworth and Dr. Backus of Kansas City will speak.

The members of the Flambeau club propose to find the man who threw the stone at W. E. Brubaker during the parade Tuesday night and punish him to the extent of the law.

Governor-elect Morrill says he has not yet chosen his private secretary and that his stenographer is now looking after all his correspondence which is something tremendous since election.

A man who belongs to Topeka's liter-

IN SOCIETY CIRCLES

Recent Social Events in Topeka and Vicinity.

GENERAL NOTES OF SOCIETY

Personal Items of Interest About Topeka People and Visitors in Town.

Mr. Rankin Mason returned from Ft. Scott yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ohmer are in Chicago.

Mr. George T. Nicholson is in Chicago.

Mrs. Charles Kistler gave a reception this afternoon at her home, 1207 North Monroe street.

Mrs. Marie Dunning returned from Colorado Springs yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Pierce of Mayville, Ky., are the guests of Mrs. Hughes.

Mrs. Pierce's sister, on West Seventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Clausen of Lincoln, Nebraska, are visiting Judge and Mrs. Johnson.

Mrs. J. B. Connell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. McVey, came up yesterday in response to a message that her mother was seriously injured while viewing the parade Tuesday night. An account of the accident to Mrs. McVey appeared in last evening's JOURNAL.

Mr. Grant Meade of Horton, who came up Saturday to attend the funeral of his uncle E. N. Morehouse, returned home yesterday.

George Hindman, Hagerstown, Indiana, and Gillespie Hindman, Island City, Mo., are visiting their brother, S. Hindman.

Mrs. C. N. Nelson has been seriously indisposed for several days.

Miss Rosamond Horton will entertain a few friends this evening to meet her guest, Miss Broadhead of Washington, D. C.

Miss Broadhead has been visiting relatives in Lawrence for some time, and will go there again before returning home.

Mr. W. H. Strong was a visitor at the flower show yesterday.

The Ladies Aid society of Grace cathedral met this afternoon in the church parlors.

Monday is Dean Millspaugh's day at home, where he will be glad to see all his friends.

The Duplicate Whist club will meet with Mrs. Frank Holliday Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunlap, Miss Madge Johnson and Mr. Eugene Hagan occupied a box at the Felix Morley performance last evening.

Mrs. E. E. Roubush and Mrs. E. E. Baker received from 2 till 6 this afternoon complimentary to Mrs. Charles Reiser of Chicago.

Last evening about fifty friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Rushmore assembled to assist them in celebrating their golden wedding, they having reached the fiftieth matrimonial milestone yesterday.

The ladies of the company presented Mrs. Rushmore with a gold watch and chain and the gentlemen gave to Mr. Rushmore a handsome gold headed cane. They also received a number of other handsome presents.

Miss Edith Davis and Miss Ethel Palmer added to the evening's enjoyment by reciting some charming selections. Uprights where the refreshments were served from several small tables the rooms were decorated in green and yellow, antix and chrysanthemums predominating. On the wall in gilt characters, "44-94," was tastefully arranged.

The flower show.

The flower show given by the ladies of the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon, last evening and continuing through today, was a beautiful and artistic success. The chrysanthemums, which formed the chief floral display, were most magnificent. On the table which held the donations were many beautiful plants. This was in charge of Mrs. C. F. Feltner, assisted by Mrs. William Swagley and Miss M. Bowers. In the tea room Miss Landrigan presided, assisted by Miss Jennie Greison, Mesdames Willard and Horace Hall, Brubaker, and Halley. In charge of the florists' display of potted chrysanthemums were Mrs. John Cleveland, Mrs. Eugene Still, assisted by Miss Lucy Kingman, Miss May Thomas, Mrs. Paul Bennett, Mrs. Philippa, Mrs. James Griffin, and Miss Carrie Sheffield as cashier. Mrs. Eugene Ware was in charge of the cut flowers, with Miss Zena Freeman as assistant. To the ladies having the show in charge much credit is due for the beauty of the display.

The rooms were opened yesterday afternoon, and continued so through the evening and today. The ladies have decided to continue the display through Friday from 10 a. m. till 10 p. m.

Friends Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Rhoades entertained a number of friends last evening at their home, 433 Locust street. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crook, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chitwood, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Penwell, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beecher, Mr. and Mrs. J. Feldner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKown, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hartwick, Mr. and Mrs. S. Feldner, Mrs. Matlock, Misses May Jenkins, Mary Hartwick, Florence Feldner, Mamie Travis, Ella Matlock, Nellie Crook, Belle Riggs, Minnie Kleasath, Grace Feldner, Nellie Riley, May Rhoades, Jessie Matlock, Laura Rhoades, Messrs. Andy Bower, George Wilson, John McKnight, Hugh Lawler, Wallace Zerkle, J. Long, Jno. Frayre, Jno. Campbell, John Forrig, Art Matlock, A. Riley, E. S. Richner and Willie Crook. The evening's enjoyment consisted of high five and dancing.

LOCAL MENTION.

Land Commissioner John E. Frost, of the Santa Fe, is in New York City.

J. M. Torrence, of the Santa Fe car service office, is at Sunman, Ind., attending the funeral of his aged mother.

C. M. Welch has brought suit to attach lots 429-443 Taylor street. The lots belong to James Enlow, and Welch claims them on a debt of $753.

The Santa Fe land department has sent another big consignment of Shawnee county apples to the food and industrial exposition at New York City. The Santa Fe's display is attracting a good deal of attention there.

C. A. Smith, of Rosville, was yesterday convicted in Justice Chesney's court of saying unseemly things to Mrs. Hiram Hall, also of Rosville, and was fined all of $1 and costs. He will appeal the case.

Daily Mass Meetings.

No Grieving, no Nausea, no Pain, when De Witt's Little Early Risers are taken. Small Pill. Best Pill. Best Pill. J. K. Jones.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

CHANCE FOR WOMEN ARCHITECTS IN COTTON STATES EXPOSITION.

Serolis Still Tolerant—A California Woman's Outfit—Dress Reform—Will She Smoke?—Crimoline Rampant—Eyebrow Sets—The Chicago Woman's Club.

The board of women managers of the Cotton States and International exposition at Atlanta has issued the following notice to women architects:

Designs will be received until Nov. 25 from women architects anywhere for the woman's building to be erected in connection with the Cotton States and International exposition, to be held at Atlanta September to December, 1895.

A first and second premium will be awarded for plans.

For particulars, diagrams and data apply by letter to Mrs. Edward C. Peters, chairman building committee Cotton States and International Exposition company, Atlanta.

The exposition which opens in September, 1895, promises to become one of the best opportunities for the display of woman's work in all lines of intellectual, artistic, scientific and industrial progress known to this country.

The United States has appropriated $200,000 for a government building and will be represented by a complete government exhibit and assurances have already been received from foreign powers that they will participate. Many of the southern states will also be represented by comprehensive displays. Previous exhibitions have had incomplete displays of woman's work. The World's fair at Chicago demonstrated to the world the scope and value as well as the exceeding beauty of woman's work, and it is our desire to show at the forthcoming exposition the great progress of recent years in this line.

A woman's building will be in readiness for a large number of exhibits, including a library, patents, inventions and other notable specimens of woman's genius and skill. The artistic work of women is especially desired. A sales room will be provided where articles may be sold for the benefit of exhibitors. The board of managers assures all persons interested that a large, capable and enthusiastic committee of women will devote themselves to a proper placing of these exhibits.

All women who will interest themselves in the coming exposition are requested to open a correspondence with the woman's department, stating their wishes and the class of exhibits obtainable in their respective sections. All inquiries will receive prompt replies.

As less than one year intervenes before the exposition opens, it is necessary that a thorough and systematic effort be made to insure success.

In reference to the above the New York Sun says editorially:

Now there is a chance for a great woman architect. The building committee of the Atlanta exposition has offered a high premium for the best design for an exposition edifice by a woman, competition open to all women everywhere. We have no doubt there will be thousands of competitors.

Among women there have been painters of eminence, and sculptors of some merit, and musicians of high rank, and literary artists a plenty, but we cannot think of the name of any great architect among them. In old times Phryne, a Boeotian woman, offered to rebuild the massive walls of the magnificent city of Thebes, but she did not need to be an architect to do that.

We would like to see some woman, any woman, win artistic immortality by designing for the Atlanta exposition a masterpiece of architecture, an edifice worthy of woman's genius, that will bear her name through the ages and gain the Atlanta prize. Never before was such a chance to win an architectural triumph offered to American women.

Serolis Still Tolerant.

Serolis, the oldest of the woman's clubs, has never gone in for assaults on men. Although nearly all of its members have been active, as members of other societies, in promoting the cause of woman suffrage, and have, in the course of their labors, spoken with resentment of the men who retain the exclusive privilege of voting, yet at the Serolis meetings they have refrained from remarks uncomplimentary to men.

Serolis did once discuss the question of how to manage a husband, although that was not the title of the paper which raised the discussion. In that discussion the ladies were far from bitter, and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the best way to manage that necessary person, the husband, was to "feed the brute."

Even the Professional Woman's league is at times quite bitter toward the men and has intimated that it would be small loss and that the world would be the better for it if men should get off the earth. The suffrage societies have generally agreed that it is reprehensible to be a man. Because such organizations of women are pitiless in their ridicule of men it is grateful to find Serolis still amiable, or at least tolerant. The members are even willing to call in the aid of men when it seems to be necessary.

At the last meeting the workmen on the floor above, at Sherry's, continued to pound and make noises, although the proprietor had been requested to reduce them to silence. Mrs. Raymond then moved the appointment of a committee "to request some of the stronger sex to argue with the noisy workmen with a fencer or a club."—New York Advertiser.

A California Woman's Outfit.

A California woman, Mrs. Magee, wife of the instructor in physical culture at the University of California, has solved the dress problem to her own satisfaction. She was a delicate woman and coveted the store of health and strength which her husband brought back from his frequent long tramps in the mountains and valleys. She wanted to go with him, but felt the handicap of her woman's dress. Finally she evolved a mountain outfit equally good for riding and bicycle, perfectly modest, and yet in it Mrs. Magee can penetrate any thicket, be out in all weather, vault logs or swing for a rocky jump.

The suit is in two parts, a loose, belted jacket and very wide Turkish trousers, which are kilted plaited above to a sleeveless lining underwaist and fastened below by a band under the knees. The fullness sagging down gives the effect of a full skirt tucked up for the sake of convenience. The little underwaist buttons in front so that the costume is easily put on and off. On the jacket is an ample rolling collar, which may be drawn up by a tie in order to protect the neck. The shoes are russet calf, cut low down in order to give free play to the ankles, with a double row of nails about the sole, a single row about the heel and one nail in the middle. Leggings should be made to order and never of leather, as this to a woman's tender skin is insufferably hot. Bedford cord is good, and still better is moleskin, which is light, flexible and exceedingly durable. Have a steel put up one side of the legging to keep it trim. Shoes with rubber soles will be found useful for resting your feet after a tramp or for walking on slippery rocks. A hat, a rubber blanket and a stick with a spike in it, if you care for one, complete the outfit.

Mrs. Magee looks upon this costume as her salvation, as in it she has been able to take many and health giving trips with her husband.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Dress Reform.

Dress reform within conservative limits is about to be introduced into the Teachers' college of New York. It has been recommended to the students by the feminine professors, who have worked out their own idea of what a good and convenient gown should be.

It should have a skirt that bears no resemblance at all to the new French fashion, for it ought to escape the ground by six inches, be provided with pockets in front and measure only three yards around. In fair weather this skirt is best made of some light weight, warm cheviot. In wet weather one of English mackintosh cloth is preferable. In all weathers melton leggings must button from instep to knee, and under the skirts a pair of full knickerbockers will replace the usual array of petticoats.

The committee on dress reform have given no thought to the bodice for this costume nor to the head covering. All that they surrender to individual taste, for it is with a view to protecting the students from wet and cold the faculty have so seriously concerned themselves over the where-withal students, particularly on wet days, must be clothed. In winter, when there is snow, sleet or rain to battle through, too many of them turn up at the college with draggle tailed petticoats that, clinging about their heels, bring on a severe cold, chills and the like. Roomy gossamers are advocated in place of the ordinary rubber shoe, and for carrying books and papers, so as to have the umbrella hand free, a small varnished canvas case, slung by a strap across the shoulders, is suggested. It is a sign of the times that this sensible reformation is undergoing rapid adoption by the young women who are keenly alive to its advantages.

—New York Sun.

Will She Smoke?

Motherhood has always seemed to me the crown of a woman's life. Who can suppose nicotine to be a useful preparation for the young life to be launched into the world? And for the nursing mother, with a cigarette, what can we say? We should have to bury all our pictures of the Madonna fathoms deep, that they might not behold so unlovely a sight! Still my other reason is dear to me, and I should like to recommend it to you.

It seems to me that in learning to smoke woman are binding themselves with new fetters. There is the cost—no inconsiderable item, as I am told, if one has a fine taste. We may be sure women would have that. Then there is the further burden of a smoking costume. We can hardly suppose women will be less fastidious than men in this respect. But, above all, there is the burden of a constantly recurring necessity of life, which imperatively craves satisfaction. Now, we women are, as it is, bound hand and foot to artificial wants.

We have idols of the house, idols of the toilet, idols of society, idols of fashion, and now, in the name of breaking with an old tradition, which, as we see, has much to be said in its defense, we propose to enslave ourselves afresh and to sacrifice to a new idol, more exacting than any of these. In the matter of clothes alone, think how many times a fashionable woman changes her costume every day—to breakfast, to ride, to drink tea in, to dine, and now, alas! to smoke in.—Nineteenth Century.

Crimoline Rampant.

Women crowded too soon over the defeat of crimoline. It was only downed for one season. If you don't believe it, look in the shop windows and on the skirt counters. The organ fold haircloth skirt has reached the bargain counter, and that means everybody will wear it. Then, too, dress skirts are lined and interlined until they are like umbrellas.

The newest skirt patterns show not only flaring seams to the front breadth, but even extra curves on the seams that form folds beginning ten inches or a trifle less below the waist. Of course something must be worn to hold these out, and crimoline will produce all the effect of a hoopskirt.

At the same time not every dress must be cut on this style. The time has come when the same latitude is to be allowed us on skirts as is given in hats. Big, little or medium will be worn, depending on the person's physique and the purpose for which the dress is to be worn.

The same couturier who sends out the the mountains and valleys. She wanted to go with him, but felt the handicap of her woman's dress. Finally she evolved a mountain outfit equally good for riding and bicycle, perfectly modest, and yet in it Mrs. Magee can penetrate any thicket, be out in all weather, vault logs or swing for a rocky jump.

The suit is in two parts, a loose, belted jacket and very wide Turkish trousers, which are kilted plaited above to a sleeveless lining underwaist and fastened below by a band under the knees. The fullness sagging down gives the effect of a full skirt tucked up for the sake of convenience. The little underwaist buttons in front so that the costume is easily put on and off. On the jacket is an ample rolling collar, which may be drawn up by a tie in order to protect the neck. The shoes are russet calf, cut low down in order to give free play to the ankles, with a double row of nails about the sole, a single row about the heel and one nail in the middle. Leggings should be made to order and never of leather, as this to a woman's tender skin is insufferably hot. Bedford cord is good, and still better is moleskin, which is light, flexible and exceedingly durable. Have a steel put up one side of the legging to keep it trim. Shoes with rubber soles will be found useful for resting your feet after a tramp or for walking on slippery rocks. A hat, a rubber blanket and a stick with a spike in it, if you care for one, complete the outfit.

Mrs. Magee looks upon this costume as her salvation, as in it she has been able to take many and health giving trips with her husband.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Dress Reform.

Dress reform within conservative limits is about to be introduced into the Teachers' college of New York. It has been recommended to the students by the feminine professors, who have worked out their own idea of what a good and convenient gown should be.

It should have a skirt that bears no resemblance at all to the new French fashion, for it ought to escape the ground by six inches, be provided with pockets in front and measure only three yards around. In fair weather this skirt is best made of some light weight, warm cheviot. In wet weather one of English mackintosh cloth is preferable. In all weathers melton leggings must button from instep to knee, and under the skirts a pair of full knickerbockers will replace the usual array of petticoats.

The committee on dress reform have given no thought to the bodice for this costume nor to the head covering. All that they surrender to individual taste, for it is with a view to protecting the students from wet and cold the faculty have so seriously concerned themselves over the where-withal students, particularly on wet days, must be clothed. In winter, when there is snow, sleet or rain to battle through, too many of them turn up at the college with draggle tailed petticoats that, clinging about their heels, bring on a severe cold, chills and the like. Roomy gossamers are advocated in place of the ordinary rubber shoe, and for carrying books and papers, so as to have the umbrella hand free, a small varnished canvas case, slung by a strap across the shoulders, is suggested. It is a sign of the times that this sensible reformation is undergoing rapid adoption by the young women who are keenly alive to its advantages.

—New York Sun.

Will She Smoke?

Motherhood has always seemed to me the crown of a woman's life. Who can suppose nicotine to be a useful preparation for the young life to be launched into the world? And for the nursing mother, with a cigarette, what can we say? We should have to bury all our pictures of the Madonna fathoms deep, that they might not behold so unlovely a sight! Still my other reason is dear to me, and I should like to recommend it to you.

It seems to me that in learning to smoke woman are binding themselves with new fetters. There is the cost—no inconsiderable item, as I am told, if one has a fine taste. We may be sure women would have that. Then there is the further burden of a smoking costume. We can hardly suppose women will be less fastidious than men in this respect. But, above all, there is the burden of a constantly recurring necessity of life, which imperatively craves satisfaction. Now, we women are, as it is, bound hand and foot to artificial wants.

We have idols of the house, idols of the toilet, idols of society, idols of fashion, and now, in the name of breaking with an old tradition, which, as we see, has much to be said in its defense, we propose to enslave ourselves afresh and to sacrifice to a new idol, more exacting than any of these. In the matter of clothes alone, think how many times a fashionable woman changes her costume every day—to breakfast, to ride, to drink tea in, to dine, and now, alas! to smoke in.—Nineteenth Century.

Crimoline Rampant.

Women crowded too soon over the defeat of crimoline. It was only downed for one season. If you don't believe it, look in the shop windows and on the skirt counters. The organ fold haircloth skirt has reached the bargain counter, and that means everybody will wear it. Then, too, dress skirts are lined and interlined until they are like umbrellas.

The newest skirt patterns show not only flaring seams to the front breadth, but even extra curves on the seams that form folds beginning ten inches or a trifle less below the waist. Of course something must be worn to hold these out, and crimoline will produce all the effect of a hoopskirt.

At the same time not every dress must be cut on this style. The time has come when the same latitude is to be allowed us on skirts as is given in hats. Big, little or medium will be worn, depending on the person's physique and the purpose for which the dress is to be worn.

The same couturier who sends out the

A Traveler's outfit should be compact, but it should always include a supply of the best remedy known for sprains, strains, lame back, congestion arising from cold, any one of the innumerable pains and aches liable to come at any time.

Allcock's Porous Plaster

Avoid imitations claimed to be "Just as good as Allcock's." Get the genuine.

Allcock's Corn Shields, Allcock's Bunion Shields, Have no equal as a relief and cure for corns and bunions.

Brandreth's Pills

relieve headache, torpid liver and diseases caused by impure blood.

Slaves of Custom.

There are no tables in the houses of the Esquimaux, and the women are, therefore, in the habit of placing everything on the floor. A Danish lady employed several Esquimaux women to do some washing. Entering the wash-house she saw them all bending over the wash-tubs that stood on the floor. To make them more comfortable, she had some stools fetched and placed the tubs upon them. By and bye she looked in to see how they were getting on, and to her astonishment discovered the women standing on the stools and stooping still more laboriously over the tubs, which still remained on the floor.

Most Precious to Him.

A passenger who escaped uninjured from a serious railway smash, seeing a fellow-traveler searching anxiously among the wreckage with a lantern, offered to assist in the search, and thinking the old man had lost his wife, asked in sympathetic tones: "What part of the train was she in?" Raising his lantern and glaring at the kindly disposed passenger, the old man shouted with indignant distinctness that triumphed over physical infirmity: "She, sir! she! I am looking for my teeth!"

When the Votes are Counted.

A majority will be found in favor of "Snow's Pine Expectorant" for Coughs and Colds. For sale by all druggists. Price 25 and 50c bottle.

If the hair is falling out or turning gray, requiring a stimulant